Data Protection Round Table
DATA PROTECTION REGIME – INSIGHTS FOR INDIA INC
September 13, 2018 at 4.30 p.m.

Significant changes undercurrent the Indian data protection and privacy rights legal regime. The Justice B.N. Srikrishna Committee submitted its report and the draft Data Protection Bill to the Ministry of Electronics & Information Technology on July 27, 2018. Passage of the Data Protection Bill will be a huge stride for India in capitalizing the momentum of a technology & data driven industrial era. The draft bill is likely to be tabled for parliament's approval in the coming winter session. The new regime will require Indian corporates to gear up and revamp their organizational, technical, and managerial security processes to ensure compliance. This will necessitate early on advocacy and awareness for India Inc.

Ms. Arya Tripathy, who has significant knowledge and experience on the subject will broadly cover the following topics:

- Overview of the Justice B.N. Srikrishna Committee report & draft Data Protection Bill
- Impact of the draft bill on Indian business and the changes that Indian companies should start planning for to avoid last minute rush to comply
- Consent, privacy, data localization, purpose of collection, rights of data participants, and other key regulations
- Similarities with European Union General Data Protection Regulations that apply extraterritorially to Indian companies doing business in EU and lessons learnt from Europe that are relevant for India's new data protection regime
- Key jurisprudence - lessons on Dos and Don'ts
- Takeaways for companies in India and how to tackle practical compliance difficulties across sectors

We hope you will make time from your busy schedule to attend and participate in this interactive session.
